I have some methods that take varargs, like this: public void method(Collection col) Now I need to rewrite this method to take a List collection, so I did this: public void method(List col) My problem now is that when I pass in a collection as the varargs, I get a compilation error. It is clear to me that what I'm trying to do is not valid since a Collection isn't a List. But I also don't want to create a List just so I can return a List as the varargs, because then I can't use stream, etc. Is there a way I can return something of type List? I mean, I didn't even know it existed (it's a gorgeous place). I've been having a blast lately, and I have to say that the "playa" scene has changed a lot since the 70s. Back then, it was just bikes and hippies, and I made a point of riding to the vieux parking lot in Bégaiare where it seemed like they all hung out on the weekend. I loved my bike, but it was too big to carry much stuff, and it was kind of tough. This new Forbass Couloir, about 30 km long, was actually a brand new ski area, built by Rick Curliss of Mountain Bike Pro magazine. Most people know him as the guy who broke the Swiss roll record. When you open a snowboard magazine, you usually learn that his son is the head chef at Jasper's, maybe his daughter is a stunt cyclist (or has been?), and his wife is a doctor (or a lawyer). The dude seems to have a lot going on. I wondered how this family trip would change things a bit. Would I be bored if I'm surrounded by people with loads of stuff. The answer was NO.
